

SPORTS PROGRAM IS NOW COMPLETE.

Events on the Card for Last Day of the Celebration.

FIRE WORKS ARRIVE TODAY

Came With Force of Workmen in Special Car From New Castle—Both Displays Will Be at the Ball Park. Mummer's Parade a Feature.

The program for the sports to be held in connection with the Third Class City Celebration next week was given out this morning. It includes just the field events which will be held at the ball park. Besides these events there will in all probability be a Marathon race, a bicycle race and several base ball games have been scheduled. The program as announced this morning by Chairman M. B. Fryce is as follows:

100 yard dash—$2.00, $2.00 and $1.00.
100 yard dash, boys—$2.00, $2.00 and $1.00.
Wheelbarrow race—$2.00, $2.00 and $1.00.
Bicycle race, boys—$2.00, $2.00 and $1.00.
Thursday Evening.

Parade

Most fantastic outfit, drawn by horses—$2.00 and $2.00.
Most comical organization, 8 or more people—$2.00.
Most content individual—$2.00.
Best decorated pony cart—$2.00.

The two big displays of fire works will both be at the ball park. Foxworth Bros., New Castle, Pa., who give the displays sent a force of men here this morning with the fire works and work on getting the red pieces in shape will be started this afternoon. The display and the men came in a special car over the Baltimore & Ohio. It originally had been the intention to have one of the displays on the vacant lots on the South Side between Cedar Avenue and Washington Avenue, but yesterday the plan had to be changed, representatives of Foxworth Bros. deciding that the space there was not suitable.

One of the big features of the celebration will be the mummers' parade which will be held on Thursday night. There promises to be a big turnout. In the parade there will be good representations of the fraternal organizations of the city. A number of orders have already taken favorable action and will appear in bodies. Some of them will have floats in line.

During the three days of the celebration the Fourth Regiment and will be out, as well as the West Side organization, the Italian band and Keenan's drum corps of Greensburg. It is probable that the Fayette County and Westmoreland Automobile Clubs will have a joint run to Connelville on Wednesday in which event there will be between 150 and 200 automobiles in line on that day.

The 1908 Class Hold a Reunion

The graduation class of 1908 of the New Haven High School is holding a reunion and picnic this afternoon at Shady Grove park. The class was the last and one of the largest and brightest classes to graduate from the New Haven schools.

It was composed of the following members: May Pickett, Mrs. Earl Porter, formerly Miss Katherine Raulman, Miss Katherine Kelly, Miss Stella Kerber, Miss Frances Rhodes, Miss Anna Laffer, Miss Laura O'Connor, Miss Anna Forwalt, Mrs. Harry Bower, formerly Miss Elizabeth Forwalt, Miss Cora Chalm, Mrs. James Colborn, formerly Miss Cora Bens Strauffer, Miss Andobin Hows and Miss Loretta Laffer.

CLARK FUNERAL

Will Be Held From St. Coleman's Church, Pittsburg Tomorrow.

The funeral of the late Stewart Andrew Clark of East Pittsburg, will take place from the residence of his brother, Francis Clark, in Pittsburg tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock. Requiem high mass will be solemnized at 9 o'clock at St. Coleman's Catholic church. Deceased was a member of St. Coleman's branch No. 97 C. M. D. A. James Clark of Lenoire No. 1 a brother of the deceased, and Mrs. Clark went to Pittsburg this morning to remain until after the funeral.

Valley Will Be Represented.

Two large double and one single streamers were sent up the Indian Creek valley this morning, to impress the inhabitants with the importance of being on hand during the entire three days of the city celebration. From present indications, the valley will send a record-breaking delegation.

Benzine in Lamp Causes Lively Blaze

A fire at the residence of Mrs. Edward Hardy, East Peach street, about 9 o'clock last night while exciting while it lasted, did not cause much damage. The alarm was sent in from box 231, and the flames were soon extinguished by the firemen.

Mrs. Hardy, who had been attending the colored picnic at Oakford park, had just arrived home and found that both her lamps needed refilling. Her oil she keeps in a bottle and going to the place it usually stands she secured what she supposed was the oil bottle and proceeded to replenish the lamp. A match was struck and then there was something wrong. Mrs. Hardy declares she never saw oil set just that way before, and she probably never did. There was a flash and a bang and the whole room seemed in a blaze. After the firemen had performed their part, an investigation was started and it was discovered that instead of kerosene, Mrs. Hardy had filled her lamp with benzine, which has the reputation of setting ugly under certain circumstances.

The curtains and carpet were badly damaged and the woodwork of the room scorched. Mrs. Hardy, luckily, escaped unhurt, although it is a miracle that she was not seriously burned. Benzine will not be used in the Hardy household for lighting purposes in the future, and the location of the oil bottle has been changed.

Chairmen Meet This Evening

In order that the general committee in charge of the W. C. T. U. work in the celebration all person whose names are appointed on the different committees are requested and all who desire to contribute to the fund are requested to confer with the chairman of the general committee, in this way the general committee will keep in touch with the work and will know what each person will donate. The different committees are urged to be present at a meeting to be held this evening at 7:15 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. The meeting is an important one and a large attendance is desired.

The chairman of the different committees are as follows: Sandwiches, Mrs. George Buttermore of East Main street, dishes and spoons, Mrs. E. G. Hall of Murphy Avenue; pies, Mrs. W. P. Clark of Green street; cakes, Mrs. L. S. Michaels of Greenwood; coffee, tea, lemonade, Mrs. Zimmerman of East Fairview Avenue; ice cream, Mrs. Nellie Showman; sewing, Mrs. F. O. Goodwin; rest room, Mrs. W. H. Spangler. All the chairmen have the Tri-State telephone, with the exception of the chairman of the rest room committee.

Mrs. Anna L. Neff, Mrs. Mary E. Williams and Mrs. Nellie H. Showman compose the general committee.

J. H. Wise Chugs Breezily Through

Jesse H. Wise chugged cheerfully through Connelville yesterday afternoon in his famous joy wagon with a colored tiger behind. He was as happy as a May morning and spent a couple of hours seeing his friends. He was on his way from his farm near Waynesburg, where he had been spending several weeks, to his home in Pittsburg.

He was accompanied by Franklin P. James, formerly of Greene county, but for the past twenty-five years practicing law at the Allegheny county bar.

Mrs. Brodnock Released. Mrs. Mary Brodnock of Lenoire No. 3, who was given a hearing Wednesday evening before Judge Robert McLaughlin of Dunbar township, was released from the Uniontown jail this morning. She was bailed out by her husband, who also made a settlement with the prosecutor in the case, Mrs. Anna Babushock.

Mrs. Stanley Jackson Ill. Mrs. Stanley Jackson is seriously ill at her home on South Prospect street. Mrs. Jackson is a daughter of John Curry, Sr., of South Prospect street. She has been ill for the past several weeks.

Burglars Enter Two Residences On the South Side Last Night.

A rather fastidious burglar was at work on the South Side last night. The home of R. A. Hamilton, corner of Cedar and Sycamore streets, was entered and a dozen silver knives, a dozen silver tea spoons and half a dozen silver forks were confiscated. The residence of J. H. Dewitt was also entered, but nothing was secured, the burglar being frightened away. Mrs. Dewitt had been down street during the evening and returning

SAM E. BRANT PERHAPS FATALLY STABBED BY ITALIAN LOITERING IN FRONT OF HIS HOME.

Councilman Samuel E. Brant was stabbed and it is thought was fatally wounded about 12:30 o'clock today in front of his home on South Arch street. Councilman Brant had just come to his dinner. The neighbors and his family called his attention to the strange actions of an Italian who had been loitering about the houses there for several hours. At that time the man was lying in the grass just over the bluff of South Arch street within a few feet of the street railway tracks. Councilman Brant went over to him and greeted him.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon a man broke from the lower yards with no coat or hat and Brantman Stacey and others in the lower yards immediately gave chase. It was the same man who stabbed Brant. He started across the river when Stacey went after him and waded to the opposite shore. There four men whose names are not known at this time caught the Italian and took him back across the river. They turned him over to Policeman James Francis and Mike Dunado who took him to the lockup. A great crowd had gathered and there was considerable demonstration at the police station.

The Italian was apparently asleep. Mr. Brant asked him gently to get up and move along. The Italian gave no response, but refused to get up. Brant caught hold of him and started to raise him to his feet, thinking perhaps that he was drunk.

A RECORD RUN IN AUTOMOBILE.

Life of Leroy Haas Saved by Harry Rush's Speeding.

FIVE MILES IN 12 MINUTES

Distance Being Up Over the Steep Dawson Hill and Hilly County From There to Nathaniel King Farm in Tyrone Township.

Barney Oldfield hasn't got much on Harry Rush, of Dawson, when it comes to driving benzine buggies. Yesterday afternoon, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Haas of Dawson, who was seriously hurt by falling from a ladder while playing in his grandfather's barn last Thursday, took a sudden religious and for a time was in a precarious condition. Dr. Jesse Cochran of Dawson was phoned for to hurry to the home of Nathaniel King in Tyrone township.

Harry Rush got Dr. Cochran into his auto and gave him a ride over the rough, hilly country roads that that servant will remember for some time to come. In exactly 12 minutes from the time the doctor stepped into the machine at Dawson he stepped into the house where his patient was confined, the Nathaniel King homestead being a distance of five miles.

The machine raced up the steep hill at Dawson and down the steep Tyrone hill, west of Owendale at a perilous speed and turned the sharp curve immediately at the foot of the hill with the precision of a tailor. Mr. Rush, fearless driving brought the physician to Owendale just in time. The child last evening was pronounced out of danger and was resting quietly.

Electioneering in the Mountains

S. R. Shelby, Esq., arrived in town today, after an electioneering tour through Springfield and Saltlick townships. He hasn't any buzz-wagon, but just a plain buggy. He doesn't get over the ground as fast as some other candidates have done in the past, but he evidently thinks that it is not at all ways wise to be too much hasty to leave too suddenly, particularly in politics.

Negro Murderer is Captured By The State Police at Meyersdale.

Burglary at Fairhope. A B. & O. conveyance at Fairhope was broken into by burglars Saturday night. The stolen goods were found by officers and the alleged burglars arrested by B. & O. special officers and the Fairhope constable. One of the State police officers went to Fairhope Wednesday to take the prisoners to the Somerset jail.

Like a flash the Italian jerked a knife from his pocket and sunk it to the hilt in Mr. Brant's left side. For an instant Brant held on to his assailant. The latter then wrenched himself free as the blood came in a gush from Brant's side and dashed down over the hill to the railroad tracks. At the time of the murderous attack there were no men save Brant about the houses there.

For an instant the full realization of what had occurred did not dawn on those about. Then Mr. Brant walked across the street. Some boys started over the hill, but the Italian had either hid himself in the bushes that grow rank on the side of the hill or was down close to the railroad tracks.

R. S. Coll, city editor of The Courier, at this minute came around the corner returning from lunch. Councilman Brant was standing on the pavement. He was calm and said: "Get that man; he stabbed me."

With some boys Coll went down over the bank to the railroad. The Italian in the meantime had crossed over the box cars. It is supposed. The alarm was given to the railroad men about the shops and scores of them swarmed in and out among the cars. Captain L. F. Russell was on the scene within a few minutes and took up the chase.

The stabling was done within a few yards of a dozen little children and women. The Italian had been acting strangely about the premises and the fact that a number of little girls and small children play there all the time during the day, gave alarm to the women folks. It was Mrs. Pyle who first called Mr. Brant's attention to the man lying in the grass. The Italian had his coat and hat off and left them both where they lay after he stabbed Brant.

The hat is a round felt one and was bought in New York. The coat is a blue serge of cheap material and in the inside pocket there is a letter dated Cambridge, Pa.

The Italian wore no coat or hat as he fled over the hill and must have hid in some of the cars after he crossed the first string for a short while for scores of men swarmed up and down the yards after the first alarm was sounded.

Coll first ran to the upper yard in the vicinity of the apple and the shops where he gave the alarm and told what happened. On South Arch street Coll told Policeman James Francis of the stabling and he took up the chase from this end. It seemed impossible that Brant's assailant had gotten beyond that point the net work was drawn so speeding by the railroad men.

Dr. T. R. Eohard and E. B. Edie were called within a few minutes after Councilman Brant was stabbed. The strength of the genial big Councilman from the First Ward never stood forth in its magnificence more than it did after he had been so severely wounded. In his bearing he never faltered. He walked erect from where he had received the knife thrust to the pavement in front of his home. He held his hand over the wound in his breast to staunch the flow of blood so the women and children could not see, and then, when the chase had been taken up, he walked unaided into his home.

Mrs. Pyle stated that the Italian shortly before noon walked about her house which is at the corner of South Arch street and Morton Avenue and examined the windows. It was shortly after this that Mrs. Pyle called Councilman Brant's attention to the man.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Councilman Brant was in a critical condition. Drs. Eohard and Edie are at Brant's bedside. His condition is critical. He did not at any time lose consciousness. The wound is a clean one just above

Missionary Meeting.

Largely attended was the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Circle of the First Baptist church held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Jones on North Pittsburg street. The meeting was the best held for some time. Mrs. S. E. Penn presided. At the conclusion of the business meeting a musical and literary program was rendered.

Mrs. Fazenbaker's Funeral.

The time for the funeral of the late Mrs. Minnie Fazenbaker of Pennsville has been changed from this afternoon until tomorrow afternoon. Services will be held at 1:30 o'clock from her late home and at 2 o'clock from the Evangelical church at Pennsville. Interment will be in the Memorial Cemetery.

Burglary at Fairhope.

A B. & O. conveyance at Fairhope was broken into by burglars Saturday night. The stolen goods were found by officers and the alleged burglars arrested by B. & O. special officers and the Fairhope constable. One of the State police officers went to Fairhope Wednesday to take the prisoners to the Somerset jail.

Railroad Folks Home From Funeral

The Italian gave his name as Salvatore Manco. He is 26 years old and says he has been around Connelville for about a year.

Manco was taken to Uniontown this afternoon about 2 o'clock. It was deemed best to take him there in view of the fact that a large crowd had gathered about the police station and also in view of the critical condition of Councilman Brant.

Mrs. W. J. Golbright and Miss Loma Cole were eye witnesses to the stabling. Mrs. Golbright was at the home of Mrs. Pyle getting a dress fitted. She with the other women gave what first attention the women could before the arrival of Drs. Edie and Eohard.

The men who captured Manco, it was learned this afternoon were J. G. Forwalt and W. N. Griffiths of the motor department at the West Penn railroads at the car barns.

They grabbed the frantic Italian as he made a break to get up the bank and, not to lose any time they started right back across the river with him where he was turned over to Policeman James Francis and Dunado.

At three o'clock this afternoon Councilman Brant was resting fairly well. The stab wound went into the lung and cut the heart a little. The magnificent physical condition of Councilman Brant, it is hoped, will pull him through.

SCOTSDALE WOMAN DIED AT 3 O'CLOCK.

Mrs. N. L. K. Kline Passes Away After Two Days of Unconsciousness.

FUNERAL SERVICES ON SUNDAY

Deceased Lived in Scottdale for 35 Years, Came From a Well Known Westmoreland County Family, and Was Married 48 Years Ago.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, July 28.—Elizabeth Boyce Kline, wife of Dr. N. L. K. Kline died at her home on Chestnut street this morning at 3:15, from a complication of diseases, aged 66 years. Mrs. Kline had been in poor health and some time ago was taken worse. Two days ago she became unconscious, never rallying. The deceased was born and spent her earlier life about Greensburg, being descended from pioneers of this county, some of whom fought in the revolution. She married Dr. N. L. K. Kline, a dentist of Irwin, 46 years ago, and they afterward came to Scottdale, being among the very first to settle here, about 26 years ago. They have been prominent in the town and identified with its life ever since. Comparatively few knew that Mrs. Kline was seriously ill and the news of her death shocked her many friends.

Deceased leaves two sisters, Mrs. John Stewart of Greensburg, and Mrs. Emily Horner, widow of the late Samuel Horner, also of Greensburg. Dr. Kline is a brother of Dr. W. J. Kline and Amos Kline of Greensburg, and Rev. Alpha Kline of Grove City, Pa.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence of the deceased on Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. J. E. Hutchinson, pastor of the Presbyterian church of which the deceased was a member. The body will be taken to Greensburg on the Pennsylvania train leaving here at 9:42 Monday morning and will be buried at Greensburg.

In Police Court.

There was not much excitement at police court this morning. Two offenders faced the honor, one charged with drunkenness and the other with trespassing on the B. & O. The former was discharged with some good advice, and the latter was given 15 minutes to resume his pilgrimage toward Rockwood, where he claims to be employed by the Western Maryland.

Negro Murderer is Captured By The State Police at Meyersdale.

Bill Yancy, the "bad con", who had been terrorizing Sand Patch and vicinity during the past month, his last crime having been a murder there three days ago, was yesterday morning captured by two State police at a point a mile or so from Sand Patch. The prisoner was brought to Meyersdale and lodged in the lockup. He

Home From Funeral

The party of Connelville folks who went to Fawn Grove, Pa., to attend the funeral of the late C. H. McDermott, the Baltimore & Ohio fireman who was killed Monday in the wreck of train No. 3, returned this morning. In the party were Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Shupp, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Gulek, Thomas Connelly, James Moore, O. A. Travis, J. R. Scott, C. J. Grim, E. C. Linden, C. B. Peck, C. A. Inhoff, R. Lingor, E. A. Dunn and S. M. May.

The funeral services were held in the Methodist Episcopal church at Fawn Grove and the edifice was not large enough to hold all who sought admittance. McDermott was a widely and favorably known in his home community. His family were the first settlers there and stand high in the whole countryside. A brother, Rev. Wm. R. McDermott, is pastor of the M. E. church at Rowayton, Conn., and came on to the funeral.

Fawn Grove is in the center of a great farming and truck raising district 60 miles from Baltimore. The Stewart, Park and Fawn Grove railroad is owned by the farmers, being built by them from Park to Fawn Grove to give an outlet to their products and crops. The party from Connelville remained at Fawn Grove over night and were charmed with the hospitality shown them and delighted with the beauty of the country.

Died on Train at Rockwood

Caleb Davis, aged 65, of 339 Mellwood street, Pittsburg, father of Dr. E. M. Davis and for many years an employee of the United States Glass Company, died of heart failure on a train, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, near Rockwood, while returning from Atlantic City at 6:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Davis, who had been in ill health for some time, left for Atlantic City about three weeks ago, in company with his wife. While returning yesterday with his wife, Mrs. Lena Welsh Davis, he was stricken by heart failure and died immediately. The body was taken to Pittsburg on the train and was taken to his home.

Contracts Let for Three Shafts

When the contract for sinking three shafts on the Crago farm about 2 1/2 miles from Rice's Landing was awarded to E. J. Frye, of Brownsville, for $75,000 by the Crucible Coal Company, of Pittsburg, the first signs of the development of the Greene county coal fields were shown. It is predicted that similar steps will be taken in the near future in the Greene county fields.

The 1,000 acres owned by the Crucible company, of which John C. Neff, formerly of Masontown, is general manager, lies along the Pennsylvania railroad extension.

Carter Dixon Goes to Jail

Carter Dixon, colored, of Connelville, who was arrested yesterday morning by Officer B. Rottler on a charge of malicious mischief was given a hearing yesterday afternoon before Judge W. P. Clark. In default of furnishing bail he was taken to Uniontown this morning by Officer Rottler and committed to jail.

P. Pagnan, the prosecutor in the case, alleged that on last Tuesday Dixon, while drunk, leaned up against and broke a plate glass window in the Pagnan store on North Pittsburg street.

Hurt Playing Leap Frog.

While playing leap frog yesterday afternoon with several of his playmates, George Helms, aged 13 years, son of Lee Helms of Wheeler, fell and injured his left side. He was removed to the Cottage State hospital for treatment. The boy at times suffers great pain from the injury.

Showers Coming.

Showers late tonight and Saturday is the noon weather bulletin.

FINAL SESSION OF CONVENTION.

The Colored Sunday School Workers Completed Their Work Last Night.

PAYNE CHAPEL WAS CROWDED

Election of Officers for the ensuing Year Held Yesterday—Song Service Enlivened the Closing—Reports of Various Committees.

Payne Chapel A. M. E. Church, West Side, was packed from the pulpit to the door with an enthusiastic throng of people last evening who had come to witness the closing exercises of the Sunday School convention and Allen Endeavor League. Rev. R. H. Bunney, D. D. presided. Rev. Charles Addison, of Bellevue, conducted the devotional exercises. Rev. H. G. Thomas of Monaca lead in prayer.

The convention was enlivened by song service. A strong paper on "What Can An Organized Adult Class Do To Aid the Church: The Prayer Meeting; the Sunday School," was presented by Miss Grace McGee of Conansburg, Pa. Unfortunately Miss McGee was suffering from a sore throat at the time and Miss Grace Joiner of Washington, Pa., read it. Miss Venzella Newsome of Tyrone, Pa., recited a beautiful selection. Wreath Banks of Washington delivered an oration on the Sunday School being likened to pure gold.

The reports from the various committees were heard and adopted. The one claiming the most interest of the convention was the report of the committee on "Efficiency of the Schools." While the committee commended the work of all the schools it was shown that the school at Conansburg was given the highest marks for excellence. Rev. Newman made the presentation speech and presented the banner to Rev. C. A. McGee, pastor at Conansburg, who accepted it with fitting remarks. The newly elected officers of the Sunday School and Allen Christian Endeavor League were called before the altar and installed by the President of the convention. The Committee on Resolutions thanked the pastor, members and friends of Payne A. M. E. Church for their splendid hospitable entertainment; to the committee in charge of the dining room for good meals and splendid service; to the presiding officer, Rev. R. H. Bunney, D. D., for his impartial rulings as an officer of splendid executive ability; to The Daily Courier for its unstinted space in reporting the proceedings of the convention.

The convention came to a close at 10 P. M. by singing the convention song "God Will Take Care of You." The eighth annual session will be held in Charleston one year hence. This convention went away with a good impression of Connelville and its people, hoping that a similar impression had been made by the convention on the people of Connelville.

On reassembling after the noon recess yesterday religious exercises were conducted by Rev. G. W. Webster. Miss Lucinda Robinson of Bellevue read an excellent paper on "The Secret of a Successful Sunday School." This being a subject of great importance it precipitated a warm discussion by Revs. C. A. McGee, W. B. Anderson, B. Wheeler and Miss Venzella Newsome of Tyrone. It was pointed out that none but Christian teachers should be employed in the Sunday School, that dancers, card players, and whiskey drinkers were wholly unfit to be tolerated in the school as instructors. Harry Penny of Brownsville read a well prepared paper on "Classical Education versus Industrial Education." The burden of the paper was to show that the masses of African Americans could be better prepared for usefulness if given an industrial education. The essayist thought it well to have higher education for the leaders of the race. From the trend of the discussion following, Rev. Dr. Anderson of Uniontown, and Rev. H. E. Newman of New Brighton taking the lead, the sentiments expressed in the paper were heartily endorsed by the convention.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, Rev. R. H. Bunney, D. D., of Pittsburg; Vice President, Rev. C. A. McGee, Conansburg; Recording Secretary, Miss Grace Joiner, Washington; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Josephine Bruce, Waynesburg; Treasurer, Mrs. L. V. Jones, Charleroi; Lecturer, Uniontown District, Miss Lucinda Robinson, Bellevue; Lecturer, Washington District, Miss Annie Dunlap, West Middletown.

FRIDAY EVENING, JULY 28, 1911.

THE THIRD CLASS CITY CELEBRATION.

The program for Connelville's Third Class City Celebration is now complete and the First City of Fayette county is getting ready to entertain her visitors during the first three days of August.

As a preliminary, the people are enjoined and the street department commanded to clean up the city thoroughly to the end that it will present a tidy appearance on the festive and happy occasion of its birthday celebration. Cleanliness is not only polite, but it is also sanitary. It is fitting that Connelville should ask all the neighbors to come in and share in the feasting and the festivities, and we have no doubt the invitation will be liberally responded to.

It is true that Bargain Day has a commercial side, but it is the commercialism that will prove most profitable to the neighbors, and in this view it is an added and attractive feature of the celebration, in some sense more exciting and in every respect more utilitarian than the parades and races, fireworks and balloon ascensions, concerts and fireworks.

However, Connelville extends the Glad Hand to all. Visitors will be just as welcome whether they buy or not. Bargains there will be plenty, but they will be entirely optional.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN AND THE MACEDONIAN CRY.

Our highly esteemed and admitted-up-to-date contemporary, The News, sometime, somewhere Official Organ of something in Connelville and the Young region, yesterday emitted this Macedonian cry:

UP IN THE AIR.
Will some one kindly ascertain beyond speculation whether or not personal registration is required for Connelville's previous to the forthcoming election? It is a matter of importance to the voters, and the issue is being agitated here who can ascertain the true facts, official and without any element of doubt as to the future. Secretary J. H. Stimmel, of the Chamber of Commerce undertook the job and received what he supposed to have been an opinion from the Attorney General of the State which indicated that personal registration is a necessity for the city. The opinion came through Secretary of the Commonwealth, Mr. Stewart, who states, it is alleged, that he only meant that Connelville, because a city of the third class, was not a city of the first class, and that the Governor had signed the charter, but did not intend to convey that personal registration naturally followed.

As a result of conflicting opinions we find ourselves somewhat up in the air today. Some local attorneys are said to have stated that they do not think the law requires personal registration until after the new officers have taken their seats. There has been no effort on the part of city officials to get the voters right on the subject, and the county commissioners, who must appoint the registrars for the different wards, have received an assurance from Harrisburg that such appointment is necessary.

It is evident some one is required to take the lead in this matter. An official opinion from the State should not be hard to secure. If personal registration is necessary we should be taking the initial steps necessary to it. A Republican politician and officer of the Senate gives it as his opinion that such a step is not necessary, and that no such step will be taken. It would, however, be dangerous to accept this as final without substantiation from some one even higher up. The people are entitled to an official opinion on this subject. Will some one city official try and secure the information for them?

The Courier, like the Good Samaritan, articulated this query, crossed over with a double-cross and answered the pettiford appeal for light on a dark subject. While our exposition of the question is in no sense "official," our good neighbor will probably find upon proper inquiry that it is "true fact" and is without any element of doubt as to the future.

The statement that the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce received what was "supposed to have been an opinion from the Attorney General" is a supposition pure and simple. The Attorney General has never expressed any opinion about it, and the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has never produced any evidence of such a fact, nor has he in our knowledge ever made any such claim. The Attorney General would probably decline to express an opinion, and refer the anxious inquirers to the law as quoted in The Courier yesterday.

The Official Organ insists that the people are entitled to an "official" opinion on the question, and insists upon the "city official" obtaining one. It is not satisfied with the opinion of a Republican politician and officer of the Senate, but we fear that it will have to be satisfied with the plain exposition of the law presented in these columns yesterday, for the dual reason that there are no "city officials" as yet and the borough officials we imagine are quite satisfied about the matter now that the language of the law has been stated.

The most puzzling question to our mind in this interesting inquiry is what has become of that "extensive law library" which The News once boasted of possessing. This was some time before Editor Thompson assumed control of the destinies and deliberations of The News, and we are oppressed with the horrible thought that one of his predecessors has snatched or hooked it.

EXTENT AND VALUE OF OUR COALING COAL.

The Democratic Kentucky Colonel who is investigating with a view to regulating the United States Steel Corporation to the best service it can be made to yield to the interests of the Democratic party in the coming Presidential campaign is not making rapid progress in his great, grand and uplifting work.

The gallant Don Quixote of the Bluegrass country is evidently not vanquishing wind mills, but is rather being tilted by them. Like the king, he sometimes has evil counselors; but the counselors, unlike the king, are secure from impeachment and punishment. When the gallant Stanlov gets through with this campaign he ought to make a tour of his sources of information and give some of them a saucy spank on the pants for having led him from the sublime to the ridiculous.

The much-advertised assumption that the United States Steel Corporation had secured a monopoly of the coaling coal of the country, and especially of the Connelville region, yesterday shown by expert evidence to be the veriest rot. Incidentally it was also shown that the Connelville coke region is far from exhaustion and dissolution, and that investments therein are better than gold mines because they are certain and safe and certainly profitable. John W. Bolleau who has made a thorough study of the question for years past, said, "Though the fields are being rapidly exhausted, there is no monopoly in coaling coal. Money invested in these lands is sure to prove the best possible investment for future years."

The account of his examination further states: "The explanation of the stability and supremacy of the Connelville field, and asserted that the Pittsburgh and Connelville coal are rich in by-products, besides being the nearest available coal to centers of consumption."

"The time may come when wasteful methods can be stopped," said he, "and the coal fields be made to produce even greater returns than at the present time." Leaving the ownership of "new region" coal deposits, Bolleau gave the following acreage ownership: United States Steel Corporation, 5,000; Jones & Laughlin, 50,000; Lackawanna Company, 14,000; Pittsburgh and Buffalo Company, 5,100; and other smaller parcels under other ownerships. Annual exhaustion of the field now amounts to 2,500 acres, without estimate. He thought increasing use would in 20 years exhaust 17,000 acres. In the "old region," the Steel Corporation owns 75 per cent of the coaling coal. This witness interested the committee by displaying a card substantiating his testimony as to relative holdings of the companies concerned.

By the new region the witness evidently meant what is now known as the Lower Connelville region, and which will eventually extend into portions of Washington and Greene counties. It is, in short, the eastern portion of the great Pittsburgh coal seam. The old region referred to is the thin narrow coal basin extending from Latrobe on the north to Fair Chance on the south, crossing the Youngsborough river at Connelville its central point. It was the scene of the earliest coaling operations.

The Steel Corporation's intention in producing such very positive evidence as to the value of Connelville coaling coal lands and the superiority of Connelville coke, and in this respect at least it is not without saving grace.

Family troubles often end in the courts and sometimes they do not end there.

Company D is tenth in the Tenth. It's all right for it to be in the Tenth, but it ought to strive to be first, too.

The picnic season is highly successful this year and the thirty units are setting highly prosperous.

Benjamin is necessary to joy wagon and joy riders, but it's all dangerous.

Greene county coal continues to be bought and sold without the aid or consent of a Democratic Congress.

The Tenth regiment is holding its own at Indiana, and some of the members are reported to be holding skirts not their own, at least not yet.

Canadian Reciprocity.

By Isaac of Yukon.

For half a century Americans have been looking forward to a time when they could have their beer chests stocked with Canadian ice without paying any duty. The ice is the chief product of Canada and the people have schooled themselves in the ice industry until they can turn out more varieties of ice than any other nation that lies under the midnight sun. The Americans and Lapps pride themselves on their maker of ice but both varieties melt whenever they are placed on the cooking stove. Won't stand.

Canadian reciprocity is going to let ice into the States at first cost. This will boom the ice chest industry from the fact that every family will furnish an ice chest. Funeral expenses will be cut down on account of embalmers being able to put subjects on ice at small cost. This will not work injury to the ice factories because they have more than they can do now to keep their hoofs from melting. Our country is drifting into specialties at any rate, and the mint which can coin brewery ice will have a fixed place in our Great Federal Industries.

Both sides will be benefitted. Canada will have a chance to take on our style of strikes, divorces, scandals, judicial misdeeds and verdicts and balance sheeting, all at first cost. It may be odd to the people for one of the royal judges to purchase a lot of our verdicts and then set them aside to show the trick can easily be worked in Canada in a few years, the people of the two countries will be trading ice on set-aside verdicts. We of the States ordinarily have more set-aside verdicts than we can deal with the skins on. Some think that the Republicans may be able to trade a lot of votes for Canadian lumber this fall, but this guess is premature because all the old-timers are expected to go into the Keystone party before the November storm strikes. The Keystone gates are wide open and the enemy is leaning tonight on the Keystone camp ground. The Keystone confidently claim the election of their ticket in spite of the hard frost and monies. They tell us that all candidates are breaking in over the fences and mixing with good people.

The new Act of Congress will give us a chance to get a really safe or trade of our supply of Hot Air. This product we have on hand at all times and should be able to ring it in on the French-Canadians in exchange for some of their frosty article in summer. Reciprocity should be tried on.

THE MILL PICNIC SATURDAY, AUG. 26.

Scottdale Workers Set the Date and Select Idlewild Last Night.

WILL BEGIN PREPARATIONS

Long Haired Preachers Draw Interested Crowds on Streets Yesterday. Presbyterian Boys in Camp on the Cheat River—Crowds Will Go in Scottdale Tomorrow.

Special to The Courier. SCOTSDALE, July 23.—At a meeting of those interested at the American Sheet & Tin Plate Company offices here last evening the final decision was made on the mill picnic and it is now an assured thing. The work of getting ready for it will be taken up within a few days, or so soon as the committees are named for the various features that mark the big outing. This will be done at an early date as there are a good many things to be prepared for. Connellsville man James W. Fitzsimmons was in the chair last evening and was again elected permanent chairman of the Picnic Association, while James Bates was chosen secretary. The picnic propositions were presented and it was decided that the outing shall be held at Idlewild, on Saturday, August 26. As it happens that will be a payday, but Paymaster John J. Hawthorne said last night that he would have it arranged that the pay would be forthcoming the day before, on Friday.

The meeting was adjourned and the chairman and the secretary and aides that will be appointed will get down to work on the arrangements. There will be sports and prizes, ball games, a band and orchestra as part of the picnic.

Agent C. M. McCracken of the Pennsylvania railroad has requisitioned three trains for the day. These will be placed on sidings at Scottdale so that everyone may get on board in comfort and without hurry. Provisions will be made for the handling of baggage in the best style and in fact everything will be looked after by the mill men to make this outing a greater success than the first one they held. The Board of Trade talked picnic this year but left it to the merchants and it seems it is put up to the mill workers.

Fishing Party.

James Bates, Clyde Trout and Jud Van Horn expect to make up a trio that are going up along the Cheat river tomorrow to arrange for Camp Sycamore.

Morrow is Coming.

Clarence Morrow will be here from Pittsburgh today to make preparations for the auctioning of the North Scottdale lots tomorrow. The West Penn. railway will have special accommodations for the sale, as there will likely be a tremendous crowd in town tomorrow.

Long Haired Preachers.

Scottdale had quite a plethora of preachers yesterday, in the morning two striking, silky haired fellows, with muzzes that hung down on their shoulders, took their stand on Pittsburgh street near Steiner's tobacco store. They were clad in tan frock coats, tan colored broad brim hats. They told of the Israelite House of David, in Michigan. They drew quite a crowd about them all day, quoted Scripture extensively and handed out tracts of their belief. In the evening three more preachers appeared on the street near Miller's store. They did not draw quite so strongly as the others. There were two of them who wore long hair and they also talked well, but they were not on the line of the two that had arrived first. All were interesting talkers whatever one might believe, and were given the orderly attention that Scottdale always gives any speaker.

Presbyterian Boys' Camp.

The Presbyterian boys' camp is located near Point Marion this year, they being among the many that enjoy the Cheat river. There are about a dozen boys in the party, quite a number having been unable to go on account of work. The younger boys had their outing a couple of weeks ago going to camp near Champion.

Hurst at Mill.

Frank Horn and Matthew Templeton, mill roller and extra roller, are both off duty. Horn fell on a hot pack and had his arm and shoulder badly burned, while Templeton, who took his place, while "sawing a stick" had his arm out on the edge of a sheet, so that six stitches were required to close the wound.

Home From Camp.

J. W. Fitzsimmons and family have returned home from a few weeks spent in camp along the Cheat river.

MEYERSDALE.

MEYERSDALE, July 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Walter of Connellsville, who spent a week at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Yoder of Blue Hill, returned home today. Mr. Walter, who is one of the B. & O.'s train dispatchers, was called on friends at this place, his former home, last evening. He has not been enjoying the best of health lately and it is hoped that his outing, though brief, will benefit his health.

D. J. Otto, a well known farmer residing near Springs, Pa., fell from a high stack of lumber yesterday and sustained severe injuries. His scalp wounds required the putting in of eighteen stitches.

The members of the M. L. Sunday school held their annual picnic at Riverside Park today. There was a large attendance.

Two members of the state constitution, Alex. Vought and Thomas Parks, have been assigned to Meyersdale to remain here until the completion of the new tunnel now in course of construction at Sand Patch. The officials have opened up headquarters at the Keweenaw Hotel, where they may be found any time their services may be required. The new members of the Board of Health have been appointed. Dr. Bruce Leighty takes the place of Dr. C. R. Large as health physician, and Dr. P. H. Burt succeeds W. H. Fitch as a member of the board. The hold-over members are Charles Tressler, Geo. W. Slesha and William Deal.

Miss I. Vance Livingston is attending the teachers' training school at Oakland, Md., this week.

Rallied in Eighth, Took the Game

In a fast game at Youngwood Wednesday Trauger defeated the leaders of the Pennsylvania Railroad League 5 to 2. In the first Trauger scored a run and then failed to cross the plate again until the eighth. In the seventh Youngwood batted two runs home, leading two to one. But Trauger came back with one of their famous rallies in the eighth, and by timely and consecutive hitting tallied four runs.

Water Street Takes Another

The Water Street team added another victory to their string yesterday when they beat South Side 13 to 1 on the South Side grounds. The batting of Knight was a feature of the game. He had five hits in six times up. The pitching of King was another feature. Every man on the Water street team had a hit or more but Fieber. The fielding on both sides was poor.

Tona Vita Tonic Brings Back Health

The country is filled with half sick, run down, listless people afflicted with nervous debility.

Are you one of them? Do you feel tired all the time, with no ambition or energy? Do you get up in the morning with a poor night's sleep, feeling worn out when you want to be? Do you catch cold easily? Is your circulation poor? Have you an irregular appetite? Is your stomach out of order most of the time? Are you nervous and depressed in spirits?

These are the symptoms of nervous debility. Tona Vita the wonderful new tonic is bringing back health to thousands who are afflicted with this trouble. If you are struggling along in this miserable run down condition, trying to do your work when you feel like going to bed, you can get a new lease on life by a trial of this great tonic that is making such a record all over the world.

Men and women in all stations of life are being built up and rejuvenated by Tona Vita. The tonic acts so quickly that it astonishes those who try it for the first time. From the first dose the tired, despondent feeling begins to disappear, sound sleep and good digestion return in a few days. Then health and renewed energy bring back happiness and ambition.

Don't drag about half dead any longer. Get this medicine at once. You will be thankful the longest day you live. If the tonic does not do you more good than anything you have ever tried you can have the purchase price returned by our regular agent.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative, the assistant remedy should be taken in connection with Tona Vita, where there is chronic constipation. Lee's Rhubarb Laxative is a pure, harmless and effective family laxative containing the fine medicinal qualities of rhubarb, is pleasant to take. A. Clark has the agency for Tona Vita and Lee's Rhubarb Laxative in Connellsville.

Home From Fishing Trip.
Charles O. Schroyer, Earl Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Percy McGibbons, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGibbons and Ewing A. Hibbs returned Tuesday night from a fishing trip to Breverton. They had a fairly good luck and caught about 35 bass, part of which they brought home. And it had not been for a rain storm which made the water muddy they would have had better luck. While there they met William W. Kennedy and Lawrence Cogan who went there Tuesday morning on a fishing trip.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS' ANNUAL PICNIC

Of the United Presbyterian Church at Oakford Park Yesterday.

IT WAS A BIG SUCCESS

Weather Was Most Enjoyable and Everyone Enjoyed the Day—The Program of Sports and Winners of the Several Events.

The annual picnic of the United Presbyterian Sunday school held yesterday at Oakford park was a grand success. Four special cars were used to convey the picnicers, who numbered in all 423. After their arrival at the park the picnicers united with the annual outing of the Reformed and United Presbyterian Sunday schools of Scottsdale. The weather was ideal and a most enjoyable day was spent at the park. Two slight accidents occurred while the base ball game was being played. Paul Dick had the palm of his hand slightly torn and Walter Horwick sprained his thumb.

An athletic program had been arranged by the committee in charge. There were two baseball games. The first game was between the North End team and the Y. M. C. A. team. The score was 6 to 3 in favor of the North End players.

The second game was between the North End team and a picked team from the Sunday schools, the latter winning by a score of 19 to 5.

The next attraction was two quoit contests. David Cook of Pittsburgh and W. B. Downs played against J. A. Downs and Dr. Jesse Arnold. Mr. Cook and Mr. Downs won all three games. The second contest J. A. Downs and Dr. Arnold played against W. B. Downs and T. Scott Dunn. Dr. Arnold and J. A. Downs won four games out of five.

The result of the races was as follows: Boys' race, from 3 to 10 years, Theodore Duff, 50 yard dash, for boys and girls, Albert Shaffer, and Mary Bowers; potato race for small girls, Anna Armigo of Jeannette, high jump, of girls Jane Callaghan. A peanut scramble closed the program. There was no prize offered for the last amusement.

HE SAW THE POINT.

And For That Very Reason He Didn't Join in the Laugh.

"They" were chatting in the smoking room of a little Konaklikje Pakot-rap (Manabachup) coaster, on a two months' run among the islands below the equator, when some one speaking of the Malay peninsula some one also said, "My impression of the Straits Settlements came summed up in a single picture—a black man, standing in the water of a muddy stream, trying to split a rock with a shirt."

Now this always provokes a laugh; it is venerable and familiar. But to my surprise, said Frederick B. Isham, the novelist, one of the smoking room's frequenters, on this occasion he partially failed. What was the trouble? The delinquent, the one man out of seven who didn't laugh, was tall, saturnine and English.

"What's the matter, old chap?" asked the novelist. "Don't you see the point or are you waiting until tomorrow to wake up to it?"

The other man turned his head wearily. "See the point?" he said sadly. "I should think I did. I ought to. I, tragically, am the man who owned the shirt."

Then we, knowing he had lived twenty-five years in the orient, became silent; our laughter ceased. A sympathetic melancholy descended upon us. Englishman or not, we took him to our heart of hearts and made a brother of him.—Baltimore American.

Jokable Relatives.

One of the curious social customs practiced by the Crow as well as by many other Indian tribes is the "mother-in-law taboo"—that is to say, a man is under no circumstances permitted to hold conversation with his wife's mother. Another strange restriction is that relating to the playing of practical jokes. A man is not permitted to jest with any one he pleases, but is limited to the individuals whose fathers belonged to the same clan as his own father. Within this group, however, practically any liberty is allowable. If a man discovers that a "jokable relative" has committed some foolish or disgraceful act he can publicly twist him with it, and the person derided must not get angry, but bide his time for some favorable opportunity to retaliate.—American Museum Journal.

The Important Question.

The new woman was telling his wife about the fire. "It broke out at midnight in the Von Dine house on the avenue," he said, "and just as we got there Miss von Dine came stumbling out of the flames and smoke, carrying her little niece all wrapped up in her arms. It was the bravest act I ever saw."

"What was she wearing?" inquired the fireman's wife.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What do we live for if it is not to make life less difficult to each other?—George Eliot.

SOCIETY.

C. W. B. M. Meeting.
At a special meeting of the C. W. B. M. Auxiliary of the Christian church held yesterday afternoon in the church Mrs. Mary Brashers, Mrs. Mary R. Connell and Mrs. A. J. Buttermore were appointed a committee to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The committee will likely nominate two candidates for each office and will present their names at the September meeting at which time the election will take place.

September closes the Auxiliary year and at the meeting to be held on the first Thursday in September all business for the year will be closed. There will be no August meeting.

Granted Marriage License.

William Kisor and Agnes B. Forrell of Scottsdale, were granted a marriage license in Fairmont yesterday.

Ye Old Inn Campers

Entertain Visitors

Special to The Courier.
ROGERS MILL, Pa., July 27.—A delightful time was had at Ye Old Inn today. A party of visitors were present from Conneltsville, including the following: Prof. and Mrs. Bruce Cough and son, George, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Horner and Miss Florence Ankeny.

A sumptuous dinner was spread, there being 25 seated at the table. The decorations consisted of a beautiful daisy chain draped above the table, with large ferns forming the background. The table bouquets were yellow tiger lilies, white and yellow daisies and ferns.

In the afternoon the sport of fishing, boating and baseball was the program.

The campers at Ye Old Inn are all well and enjoying good health. Snipe, groundhog and fish seem to agree with them.

A Big Picnic

at Ferncliff

The Union picnic from Owensdale and Scottsdale at the Ferncliff at Oblopyls yesterday was one of the largest church picnics held at Oblopyls in many years. There were 700 of the picnicers and everyone of them spent a most enjoyable day. There was a sports program and two ball games. The ball game between the T. N. Brownfield Bible Class and the White Stoner Class ended in a tie, 6 to 6. The Brownfield Bible Class won from the Brownfield Class 8 to 4. Proprietor Pow, of the Ferncliff, made things so pleasant for the picnicers that many of them were loathe to return home last evening.

HISTORIC CHURCH REUNION.

Gathering is Held at Brush Creek. Once Attacked by Indians.

GREENSBURG, July 28.—(Special.) The annual reunion of the historic old Brush Creek Reformed congregation was held at the old church yesterday. Nearly 600 attended. The first church building was constructed over 125 years ago. It was built by the settlers at that time and was burned down by the Indians. The settlers then constructed the present church building 100 years ago.

The present church is made of brick from clay and sand found near the church grounds. Addresses were made during the day by clergymen and music was furnished by different church choirs in this city. Those in charge of the reunion were the Rev. Charles Noss, S. L. Harold and W. S. Peters. Miss Margaret Black, Mrs. W. S. Peters and Clay H. Stahl had charge of the music.

WIFE DEAD; SHOOTS SELF.

Husband Attempts to End Life Over Gasket.

JEANNETTE, Pa., July 28.—(Special.)—With his left hand on the face of his dead wife, in a casket, who committed suicide Monday night, Michael Miller, aged 25, a glass worker, shot himself over the heart with a revolver at his home here this morning. He fell on the floor, unconscious. A sister of the dead woman and two other women were in the room at the time. Physicians were summoned and they stated that Miller would hardly recover. Mrs. Miller was 21 years old. On Monday the couple had a quarrel. Miller walked to the back yard. He heard his wife scream and on entering the house he found her lying on the floor. She had taken carbolic acid and she died within a few minutes.

IT'S VERY QUIANT.

Women This Summer in Old Fashioned Attire.

JUST LIKE GRANDMA'S DRESS.

Did you ever have the good fortune to look over an edition of Godey's Lady's Book, that fashion authority of antebellum days? Well, if you have you will recognize features of some of the summer gowns as reproductions of these old frocks with a few modern touches.

For instance, the dress illustrated of old times patterned black and green foulard. The modern touch here is the tucked sleeves and the cords about the waist line which this season finish many of the best gowns at this point. The ruffled of embroidered linen is another quaint feature.

A BRILLIANT PAST PRESAGES BRIGHT FUTURE FOR CONNELLVILLE; ITS DEVELOPMENT HAS ALWAYS BEEN STEADILY UPWARD AND ONWARD.

THE FIRST CITY OF FAYETTE CO. AND STILL CENTER OF COKE REGION.

Directory of Its Business Men and Industries Is Synonymous With the Roster of Its Successes.

TEN YEARS OF RAPID PROGRESS

Marked by the Erection of Many Impressive Buildings and Handsome Residences, Monuments to Era of Prosperity—Strangers Are Always Impressed With the Busy Atmosphere of Connellville.

The past history of Connellville is one of steady progress; the future holds forth even greater promise. Few towns have the advantages of Connellville; none has more opportunities that will eventually spell civic and industrial greatness. Connellville has forged to the front without the spectacular; its citizens have been always progressive and if the progress that has been made in the past was steady, it was no less permanent. Oldest citizens can hardly remember the time when Connellville was a backwater; the course has been upward and onward. If there were reverses, the forward swing of the pendulum always went ahead farther than it did before.

Connellville is the only city of Fayette county. It was last fall that the voters of the greater city decided to drop the swaddling clothes of civic government and assume ailments of greater dignity and power. On the first Monday of next December the newly elected officers will assume control under the new system and then the citizens can determine whether their confidence in Connellville has been justified in that respect at least.

Connellville enjoys wonderful natural advantages, some of which even yet are not fully appreciated, but they are here and the time will come when natural gifts, now neglected, will be turned to gold to enrich the community. The greatest advantage of all is the location.

Connellville is practically the first community of importance west of the Allegheny mountains. In the early days Cumberland was the westernmost community of the east; Pioneers who sought the west, and in later days, even after the Indians had been subdued and the virgin prairie and forests between the mountains and the Mississippi were filled and developed, traveled to Cumberland by canal and from there over the National Pike to Wheeling, where boats plowed the Ohio to the Mississippi and the Ken. Cumberland was the gateway of the West. Then came the railroads. They reached Cumberland and for many years the western terminal of the lines of steel was the Queen City of Maryland. Travel continued over the old Pike, but with characteristic foresight Connellville citizens agitated the building of a railroad to Pittsburgh and their efforts were rewarded with success.

Railroads a Burden. At the time the foresight of the men who brought the railroad to Connellville was not appreciated. It was without doubt the most daring stroke of financial genius ever attempted by this community. Although the population in 1870 was but 1,551, the town subscribed $100,000 bonds of the Pittsburgh & Connellville railroad. The burden was heavy, many of the timid ones deserted the community, and for the first time, between 1870 and 1880, the community suffered a loss in population. There was a falling off of 557 persons in the 10 years. Even in 1870 there were but 1,212 residents. It took 20 years to recover from the effects of the entrance of the railroad, but it paid in the end. Those who remained firm in their faith that Connellville would prosper were gratified by seeing travel diverted from the National Pike at Uniontown, brought to Connellville, and taken by rail to Pittsburgh.

The Pittsburgh & Connellville was the entering wedge of railroad. Soon Connellville and Cumberland were linked by steel rails; a line was built south to Uniontown and on to Morgantown and Fairmont. In West Virginia. With the development of the coke trade more lines were built. Today Connellville is most advantageously situated. It is served by three of the greatest railroad systems in the country. It is on the main line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, on the Southwest branch of the Pennsylvania, and this fall, with the completion of the new road now building, will be on the main line of the New York Central's great enterprise, the combined Western Maryland and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie system, giving the shortest route between Pittsburgh and Baltimore, and ultimately a cross of the shortest lines between New York and Chicago.

The River "Ocas Back." In only one class of transportation has Connellville gone back, and its citizens are hopeful that this is but temporary. This is in transportation by water. At one time the Youngstown river carried barges to Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. Today the stream is useless for transportation purposes, but its improvement as far as West Newton has already been authorized and Connellville is confident that Congress will eventually provide for dams as far as Connellville and steamboats may ply their way between Connellville and Pittsburgh or points beyond.

The presence of three railroads, each of them important systems among the transportation of the country, serving Connellville's industries, assures unusual advantages to shippers and manufacturers. Three railroads assure fairness in rates and service. Competition, keen as it is, promises to be more acute with the completion of the new trunk line, which has announced its intention of "going after business."

Industries Diversified. Although Connellville was made famous by the coke which bears its name, the town is supported by many diversified industries. Some of these are the result of the coke development of the region; others entirely independent of it. The recent slump of the coke trade has not greatly hurt Connellville, as it has in other towns of the region which depend largely upon the patronage and custom of the coke workers. Naturally the coke and coal industry of the great Connellville coke region is the main business which overhangs all other interests, but Connellville depends more directly upon other lines of industrial activity. These are not particularly large, perhaps, but they are many, and for the most part, operate steadily throughout the year. New industries are being secured, slowly, but none the less surely. Those that come, happily, come to stay, and are not of mushroom growth. Through the efforts of a well organized Chamber of Commerce, which is guided by men, sane and conservative business men, the industries which have been secured are solid, substantial concerns. They have prospered since coming here, which proves that Connellville's claims as a manufacturing center have not been overestimated.

Connellville is the center of the great coke region which bears its name. Most of the coke which is manufactured in the region passes through this point on its way to the markets of the world. This traffic is handled by three railroads, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie.

The Romance of Coke. The history of the coke region reads like a romance. It has made men millionaires; turned a community of farmers into a community of industrial kings. The first coke oven was built in 1841. Before that, charcoal was used in the manufacture of iron. Its cost made the finished product almost prohibitive in price. With the discovery of coke as a fuel for the furnaces the entire iron and steel industry was revolutionized. It was not, however, until 1860 that the commercial value of coke was permanently established. In that year the Pittsburgh & Connellville railroad was completed and the Clinton furnace had demonstrated that Connellville coke could be used in smelting iron, where the Pittsburgh coal, when coked, had failed. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad furnished the means of transportation and from that time on the Connellville coke region prospered. At first the vicinity of Dawson and the Morgan Valley was the center of the coke development. The foundation of the Cochran fortunes was laid when "Little Jim" Cochran, located coke to Pittsburgh and Cincinnati and returned laden with silver. Prior to 1860 the successful blast furnaces were east of the Alleghenies, but after that date they began to cross the mountains to secure readily the coke of Fayette and Westmoreland counties.

The great fortunes around Uniontown were made since 1898 when the Klondike field, south of Uniontown, was discovered to possess excellent coking qualities and development began. The great figure the Connellville region cuts in the coke business can be seen in the fact that there are 10,000 ovens in this territory against 16,000 elsewhere in the state. The total number of coke ovens in the United States in 1909 was approximately 103,000.

Besides splendid transportation facilities, Connellville is blessed with an abundance of cheap fuel, both coal and gas, easy of access to manufacturers. The country also abounds in other minerals of great commercial value. There are vast deposits of limestone, freestone, silica, and sand of exceptionally high grade for the manufacture of glass.

Town Always Busy. One is impressed with the busy appearance that Connellville shows at all times. The streets are crowded throughout the day, the stores have an appearance of prosperity that they really enjoy. Real estate is considered one of the best forms of investments. Values range from moderate prices for comfortable homes to almost fabulous figures for business properties. Recently the sale of two three-story apartment houses in the residential section of town brought $50,000. One is also impressed with the number of young men in business. The spirit of progressiveness is present at all times. There is confidence in the town upon all sides. Clerks are ever ambitious to become partners in the business they serve, and generally are successful. Connellville is not particularly noted for its wealthy residents. It does not boast of millionaires by scores, as other towns may, but many of its residents have required a respectable competence and turned over the care of business to younger shoulders. The homes are not palatial, perhaps, but they have an air of comfortable prosperity. Connellville is known for its pretty homes. The South Side, the residential section, is dotted with cozy, comfortable dwellings, pretty, well kept lawns and shaded streets.

Its Stores the Best. Connellville possesses all the advantages of a much larger community. Two handsome theatres furnish amusements in season. In the matter of dramatic and musical attractions, no complaint can be made. Each season brings some of the brightest stars of the theatrical firmament, with other attractions of less pretentious but meritorious quality. The people are sociable and congenial; summer and winter mark a round of gaiety. The stores are of exceptional quality. Shoppers in Connellville can have their wants fulfilled promptly and reasonably. Current styles are displayed in season. There is no real need for residents of Connellville to shop elsewhere, their wants can be met by the merchants here as well as in Pittsburgh or the large shopping centers of the east.

The Electric City. Probably no city of its size has been quicker to take advantage of that modern factor in commercial and industrial development—electricity. Connellville is literally the "Electric City." At night the business district is brilliantly illuminated by brilliant and elaborate electric signs fronting practically all the business establishments. It is rare to find a store whose display windows are not lighted by electricity. The merchants were quick to take advantage of the "flou" system of window illumination. The consequence of this is that no matter whether the stores are open or not, the windows are lighted until a late hour at night. The municipal government has also taken a liberal stand in regard to the illumination of streets and thoroughfares, and are lights dispel the gloom of practically every street within the municipal limits.

Rapid Progress in Decade.

With the exception of the period of 1850-70, when the railroad bonds frightened the most timid, Connellville has advanced actually, but none more so than during the past decade. The cause of this can be traced directly to the development of the electric railway system which now covers the entire coke region like a blanket. Connellville is the center of the great West Penn Traction Company's system of trolley lines and electric light service. The main line from Uniontown to Greensburg a distance of 37 miles, connects the county seats of Fayette and Westmoreland counties, cars being run between these points every 20 minutes, passing through the populous communities of Scottsdale, Mt. Pleasant, and a score of smaller towns. From Connellville is the division to Dickerson Run, giving ready service to Dawson and intermediate points. While a new line is being built to Uniontown by way of Juniata, opening a territory which has heretofore been without easy means of transit and which is bringing shoppers to Connellville who have heretofore dealt elsewhere. The line to South Con-

HAS ALL THE ADVANTAGES

Of Communities Many Times Larger. Location in Connellville Within Recent Years of Diversified Industries Is Only the Forerunner of Many More, Large and Small, That Will Be Here Ten Years Hence.

Connellville is still in operation and that community has grown until now it has a population of approximately 2,000. Through the medium of the street railway Connellville has become the shopping center of a territory containing approximately 100,000 people. Not all of these come by trolley. The mountain section extending almost to the Maryland State line, depends largely upon Connellville for its needs. The towns of Ohio, Confluence, Rockwood and Meyersdale deal largely with Connellville merchants. The new Indian Creek Valley railroad has opened a populous mountain territory which has diverted much trade from Mt. Pleasant to Connellville. Indeed, the trolley line has brought Mt. Pleasant to become one of Connellville's best patrons.

No "Idle Rich."

Connellville's population in 1910 was 12,516. A large proportion of this population is made up of wage earners. Connellville's "idle rich" are a negligible quantity. Few of the rich in Connellville are idle. Those not laboring have their wealth invested in Connellville's many industries. They have confidence in the town and are willing to back it with ready cash at every opportunity. The largest factor for the wage earners is the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. This is a railroad center. It is a division terminal of the Connellville and Pittsburgh divisions, employing several thousand men on trains and in the shops. Conductors and engineers, firemen and brakemen; switchmen in the yards; dispatchers who run the trains, telegraphers who man the towers; in fact, all classes of railroad men make their homes at this place. They are above the average too; many men, fearless and temperate. The attitude of the railroad towards strong drink has wrought a remarkable transformation here as elsewhere. No longer are the men, as a class, held in abhorrence, as in former times, when the devil-may-care, reckless, careless ones held full sway. A majority of the railroad men are married and the rovers have largely disappeared; among their number are men who figure most prominently in the civic activities of the community. The monthly payroll of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at this point runs from $80,000 to $150,000 each month and the larger part of it is spent here.

The Connellville coke trade contributes to Connellville through its railroads. When the coke trade is prosperous the railroad payrolls soar to large figures, and when the railroad men make good time the entire community shares their prosperity. Despite the fact that the coke trade at present is in a slump there is no question but that the tide will change in the near future. Connellville has not suffered particularly from the slump in the coke trade because of other interests which did not feel the effects of the decline.

Iron and Tin Plate.

Next to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad as a factor in Connellville's prosperity is the tin plate mill of the American Sheet & Tin Plate Company at South Connellville. This mill has not operated as steadily as Connellville had hoped, but it is a permanent industry. The fact that it can be operated at less cost than any other mill of the company is a factor that must always be taken into consideration. Humbert is a six-mill plant. When in operation it employs several hundred men and the payroll runs from $30,000 to $40,000 per month. The Humbert tin plate mill was built by local capital some 12 years ago, headed by the late George J. Humbert, and later was purchased by the American Sheet & Tin Plate Company. It closed down during the present summer, but indications are that it will resume in full at an early date.

Next in order of importance comes the Silgo Iron & Steel Company. Silgo Iron has a national reputation for quality. The mill is owned and operated entirely by local capital. Although its history has, unfortunately, been one of ups and downs, mostly down, its backers are firm in their faith that it will ultimately come to its own. The company has of late succeeded in turning out a high quality iron for anchor chains which has brought profitable orders from the United States Navy Department. The tin plate mill and Silgo are Connellville's two big industries. It is predicted that in ten years Connellville will be a city of 25,000 people.

Were Having It Hot and Heavy.

loud as the Trump of Doom; I couldn't save my neck understand how Black failed to hear it, even if he were at the other end of the island, and come back and exterminate me. So I beat it on the dead jump.

"The farm-house was in my way, however, and I pulled up there to reconnoitre. There was a sound of voices out front, and I went in the back way—out the premises being empty—and snuggled to the front windows and overstepped. To that instant I had never a thought that you might be mixed up in the mess; but I recognized your voice, and overheard just enough to open my eyes to the complexity of the situation.

"I didn't linger long enough to hear much; my position being somewhat delicate—from more than one point of view. So I sneaked out by the rear again, and laid for you on the path to the beach. Then that shower came up and I lost touch with the path. By the time I'd re-found it and traced my way back to the farm-house, you were gone. I sat and waited, but by the time I'd reached the deserted village, you were invisible, and Blackstock (by this time I know his right name) was superintending the planting of Power. Seeing nothing of you I concluded—and hoped—you'd sloped for the boat, and deduced round after you. Those shots stopped me right by the boat on the beach; I saw you coming and

"I've talked myself hoarse—for once in my life. Never dreamed I have such a taste of Heaven. . . . Coast was about to speak when Appleyard stopped him with a lifted hand. 'Look,' he said, with a wide gesture, 'and if you're superstitious at all—that is to say, human—bug comfort to your heart. For my part I'm going to take this for an omen. You may please yourself.'

Overborne by the fresh easterly wind, which blew down the Sound as through a funnel, the fog was rolling back like a scud. The little man laughed gaily. 'Haven't we won out to light and freedom, while back there'—he indicated the looming headland astern that shut off No Man's Land from their vision—'until they walk in darkness, bound upon the wheel of their own naughtiness?'

"Well," conceded Coast a little dubiously. "But on the other hand . . . here's this wind blowing. Doesn't it smell like an easter to you?"

Appleyard sniffed contemptuously. "No, it sure doesn't," he admitted. "We'll have a bit of a blow by night-fall, certainly."

"And that means trouble, doesn't it?"

"Why?"

"Because I, for one, am going back to No Man's Land tonight. And the more wind, the tougher the job of working back . . ."

Appleyard grimaced his disgust. "Who's afraid?" he demanded, truculent. "A pessimist," he misquoted with a large if inconclusive air of philosophical contemplation, "is a fellow who has to live with optimism. Not only that, but you make me tired."

CHAPTER XII.

Within another hour (and the morning was still young) the Echo rode at anchor in Quick's Hole, on the edge of the navigable channel, near the Neshawana shore, about midway of the passage between Vineyard Sound and Buzzard's Bay; and within ten minutes of the time her anchor splashed over her bows, Mr. Appleyard, his plans formulated and communicated to Mr. Coast, was peacefully asleep in the cabin—enjoying a rest which Coast, for all his own weariness of body and mind, could not begrudge him.

For six hours the younger man stood a lonely watch, companioned only by the melancholy voice of the bell buoy off the southern entrance, a sound, the most foreboding and dreary known to man, which came fittingly to the ears in the occasional lulling of the wind.

As six bells sounded Appleyard hopped on deck, yawning and rubbing his eyes, but with a light in the face, as soon as he permitted them, to be seen, and a springiness in his movements which testified to the refreshing soundness of his slumbers. "Howdy?" he chirped. "Nothing alarming turned up, eh?"

"Not a thing," said Coast. "Good enough. Don't look for 'em till evening. When'd this hull set in?" Coast informed him. "That's all right; fit in with their plans; they'd rather make a landing in the dark, anyway."

"What difference would that make?"

"Not much; only the fewer boats touching at No Man's Land, the less attention attracted. I s'pose you know there's a life saving station on Gay Head? Sure; and part of its job is to keep a list of everything that passes by, from a rowboat to a coast-wise liner."

"Of course; but—look here, Appleyard," Coast paused, doubt tinting his tone.

"Sir, to you?"

"There's one thing been troubling me. It seems to me we're taking a lot for granted. Of course, to begin with, I was only too keen to believe the worst of Blackstock. But, seriously, what warrant have you for believing he's mixed up with this smuggling game?"

Appleyard rubbed his nose reflectively. "Well," he drawled, grinning. "I haven't got any sure-nough good excuse, I admit. I just know it's so. That's all."

"But—"

"What's Blackstock sticking out there for? Not because he likes it, but because he's not solely because he's afraid of getting caught—for he settled on No Man's Land before Dundas came through with his confession; not because he would be safer in some corner of the world across the water."

"I told you his wife said—"

"She said precisely what he told her. Naturally. Probably believe it. But . . . The real reason is the reason why he dropped his remittance to Dundas; because he's broke, and down and desperate—ready to turn his hand to anything to earn a dishonest dollar. And this job's ideal for his purposes."

Appleyard wound up triumphantly.

"But," Coast argued, "she has money."

"How do you know?"

"At least, her aunt had, and it was to go to her."

"But did it? I'll lay you a handsome wager that either she never got it, or it wasn't much anyway. Blackstock managed to run through it with the customary facility of second-rate thieves."

"Don't talk to me! I tell you, I know a lot of things for certain that I don't know for sure; and this is one of 'em. . . . And now if you'll just kindly quit finding fault with my unimpeachable management of this affair, and duck below and pound your ear for a couple of hours, or until I call you, you'll be in much better shape for what's before you this night."

Coast, soothed by the wash of waves and the softly modulated tolling of the distant buoy, presently dozed off; nor did he wake until Appleyard shook his shoulder several hours later.

He started up in some perturbation—without that singular flutter of the heart that men sometimes wake to face a crucial hour.

"Well—" he asked, half dozed.

"Time," returned Appleyard coolly. "They're just about to stand in round Lone Rock. Come on deck."

His small head and narrow shoulders were momentarily silhouetted against a violet-shaded square of sky that tilted the companion opening.

"Doesn't It Smell Like an Easter to You?"

then disappeared. Coast, realizing from the twilight within and without that the hour was late, followed with expedition.

"What's o'clock?" he asked as he stepped on deck.

"About seven. Take the wheel," Appleyard dropped lightly into the engine-seat as Coast obediently moved to the stern and grasped the spokes. His first glance was comprehensive, summing up the situation in a single cast; he was now fully awake and very alert.

With a muffled cough the motor began to throb and drum. The Echo gathered way. Coast swung her gently to starboard as Appleyard, throttling the speed to half, climbed out and dropped the hatch.

"Right," the little man approved. "Now hold her steady for Pasquo, not too far up channel, and stand ready to put her about when I give the word."

"Aye, aye," said Coast intently. He pondered a while as the boat forged steadily up against the sea. "Suppose," he said abruptly, "this isn't the right boat?"

Appleyard grunted unpleasantly. "It's got to be," he affirmed with conviction. "What else could it be? . . . You'd make a shine gambler, if you want to know," he added, bustling about busily.

Coast subsided, although he continued to eye the oncoming boat with unmitigated mistrust.

Appleyard, having cast off all but one of the stops securing the gaff to the boom, first lighted and set out the starboard lamp, which was of course invisible to the approaching boat, then lighted and placed the other beneath the sea.

"I got an eye-full of her with the glasses as she came across the bay," he said, pausing beside Coast and balancing himself lightly against the mast of the boat. "She's a steppin' all right; a cabin cruiser about thirty-four over all with a good, stiff engine in her—twenty-five H.P., I'd guess. She moves when she moves!"

"That argues a crew of two?" Coast surmised.

"Just about—aside from our friend the passenger, Mr. Indiscreet—who's in such a sweat to get on his job that he has to risk the passage in the teeth of an easter," said the little man. "You can bet your boots no one else would run the chance—nor he, unless it was on urgent business."

"Now go about and stand across again, a bit further up the channel," he advised as the Echo drew under the shadow of Pasquo. "So: that's it."

The other vessel was entering the mouth of the channel, at the moment that Coast put the helm over and the Echo's green starboard eye into view. A rifle or so lay between them. Appleyard lifted the hatch and opened the throttle full, before setting out the port light.

A shower of spray swept over the Echo's counter as she bucked the tide.

"That's the stuff," said the little man. "Now they're wondering what particular variety of darn fools we are. Hold her as she stands—steady."

Two thrifty blasts from an automatic whistle floated down the water.

"What'd I tell you?" chuckled Appleyard. "She's slowed down already," he announced, although Coast was unable to discern any change in the speed of the nearing craft. "It hurts to do this." The little man jerked the whistle lever and uttered a single, prolonged, derisive blast. "Lord! they must be cussin' a blue streak!"

By this time the Echo had worked well up into the channel, the other vessel being about midway through. To a second signal, a solitary blast, Appleyard replied with two, in utter defiance of every rule and regulation for the prevention of collisions at sea.

A husky shout of wrath answered this manifestation of landlubberish foolishness. Appleyard responded with three short barks of the whistle, the same signifying what was obviously untrue—that he had reversed his engine and was running full-speed astern; for at the same moment, in obedience to his low-toned command—"Steady!"—the starboard eye of the Echo again put the wheel over and the Echo swung smartly her bow, showing her port light and making as it cut across the other's bows at a moment when they were but a few lengths apart.

There was an instant of suspense as the boats drew swiftly together. Coast held his breath and prepared to jump should the threatened happen; it seemed certain that the sharp stem of the motor cruiser would crash into the catboat's side. Even Appleyard lost something of his customary aplomb and betrayed the strain upon his nerves.

"Sit tight—sit tight!" he whispered between his closed teeth. "Don't give an inch—they've got to—they don't dare—ah-h!"

The last was a sigh of relief as the cruiser swerved sharply in toward Pasquo, shot forward a couple of lengths and brought up suddenly with a churning screw—hard and fast aground.

A moment later the Echo rounded gracefully to port within two yards of her stern; and simultaneously Appleyard, leaning far out over the combing, made an exceedingly cunning cast with a coil of line which Coast had laid in against the possibility of a broken halyard. The flying loops settled accurately into the water, just above the foam kicked up by the cruiser's propeller, and in another instant its motor stopped with a strangled gasp.

Out of the cloud of profanity that smoked up from the cruiser's cockpit flew first one heavy swapper, then another. Both splashed heavily along the Echo. Not until they had drawn well out of range did Coast and Appleyard rise from the shelter of the combings.

"So far, splendid!" commented Appleyard soberly, staring astern. "I reckon that, between the furrow they ploughed in that sheet and several yards of good hempen rope gumming up the shaft and screw, they'll bite where they are a wee. Till the tide blows over any way. It ought to take a good diver or a marine railway to free that shaft."

"Now, if you'll give me the wheel, we'll go about and get ready for business. That was child's play, alongside of what's to come. Get the sail up, please."

For a space thereafter Coast had his hands full; the Echo was swinging out of the channel, past the hoarse, despondent clanging bell, and the wind had found her with a swoop of fury and a wailing howl. By the time he had trimmed the main-sheet the catboat was swooping onward at a rate little short of incredible.

Steadily the guiding "longshore" lights swung round them, marking their progress; the starboard Cuttyhunk shining steadfast as a low-down star, to port Gay Head lifting up its lofty beacon, stern, low down, a glimmer, frequently lost—Nobaska. No nearer lights were there to bewilder; who coastwise mariners hugged snug harbors on such a night as that; the Echo took her chance alone.

Touching Coast's arm, Appleyard drew his attention to a tiny glint of light in the south, where No Man's Land beckoned them from afar, across a weary waste of broken waters.

Coast nodded, with a set, grave face, knowing that his hour drew nigh.

DON'T GIVE UP.

The Worst Thing That Can Happen to a Man is to Lose Hope.

"While there's life there's hope" is an old saying. It's true. As long as you are above ground there is always hope of better things. You may be feeling blue, tired, discouraged because you are no better off today than you were five years ago. Forget it. Forget the past and resolve to do better in the future. The first thing is to get a little money ahead of you.

No matter what you do this than to open a Savings Account. Bring a dollar to The First National Bank of Connellsville and go home with a Savings account book in your pocket. You're going to feel happier and better the moment you make the start on the road to better things.

THE FIRST CITY OF FAYETTE CO. AND STILL CENTER OF COKE REGION.

cellar that the two largest operations of the town are the most uncertain in regard to operation. Both, however, maintain the reputation for quality that made Connellsville famous through its coke.

Smaller Industries Count.
It is the many smaller industries, however, that have made Connellsville prosper. Through these it has been demonstrated that it is wiser to have many small factories than a few large ones. The smaller concerns have almost without exception profited largely in their operation. One of the oldest of these concerns is the pump manufacturing concern of Boyts, Porter & Company. This is an old established industry. Yough pumps, as they are known, have been shipped to all points of the United States. They have a national reputation, not only for their mechanical advantages, but the perfection of their manufacture. This company manufactures other machinery, but its pumps have made it famous. At present all departments of this concern are being operated at capacity and there is no end of the "boom" in sight.

The Connellsville Machine & Car Company is another prosperous concern. Although its factory was totally destroyed by fire five years ago, it has since been rebuilt and is now one of the best equipped plants in the country. This firm manufactures mine pumps, pit cars and other mining machinery. The third concern of this nature is the Connellsville Manufacturing & Mine Supply Company, which also makes a national reputation. All of these firms operate foundries in connection with their plants. They are owned and operated by local capital and give steady employment to hundreds of men. The Connellsville Iron Works is one of the younger concerns which has prospered remarkably. During its brief existence it has been literally swamped with orders and has several times been compelled to enlarge its factory. The Connellsville foundry was founded by David Long. Recently a new building has been erected and the business is being conducted on more elaborate lines.

South Connellsville a Center.
South Connellsville is really the manufacturing center of Connellsville. It is situated in an admirable position and there is an abundance of land available for factory sites. The largest industry of South Connellsville, aside from the tin plate mill, is the new glass factory of Ripley & Son. Tableware is being manufactured there. The factory is new and the machinery of the latest and most approved design. Probably no glass factory in the country has gone more extensively into the use of machinery for the manufacture of its product than the plant of the Ripleys. It is also probable that few concerns have proceeded more modestly with their elaborate plans. The factory is being operated cautiously. D. C. Ripley, head of the concern, is a veteran glass manufacturer. Connellsville was chosen because of the splendid advantages it offers for industrial plants.

Another big industry of South Connellsville is the Pittsburgh Safe Company which has enjoyed great prosperity during the past decade. This company manufactures safes of high quality and is shipping its products to all parts of the country. The Pittsburgh Safe Company is operated by local capital, which has made a success of the business far beyond the expectations of the founders. The company has, within recent years, removed its general offices from Pittsburgh to Connellsville and has found the change profitable.

Another New Industry.
Another new industry which has been remarkably prosperous is the Keystone Tube Works, located in the newly developed industrial section south of town, in the Herd bottom. The Keystone Tube Works possesses an exceptional advantage, being located on all three railroads, the Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Western Maryland. Although in operation but a year the company has already found it necessary to enlarge its present plant from tubing for beds and other specialties are manufactured and at no time since the company began operation has it been possible to get ahead of the orders which have poured in.

In the American Distilling Company, Connellsville investors have hopes of great rewards. This company was organized but recently and is just beginning to operate. By a special process, tin is removed from discarded cans and other material, which can be purchased at a low figure, and is resold. The tin is recovered free from foreign substances and commands a high price on the market. The future of the American Distilling Company holds forth much promise.

The Riverside Metal Refining Company has gone extensively into the use of electricity as a means for refining metal. This company formerly engaged in the manufacture of various products, but is now confining its energies to the manufacture of babbit metal. It finds the demand for its babbit sufficient to keep the plant in steady operation all the time without taking up other features that might be developed. The Riverside plant is owned by local capital and is bringing returns on the investment that speak well for its capable management.

Holds Up Uncle Sam.
The Highland Electro Chemical Company is another concern that is considered a money-maker for local capital. The company manufactures a soldering paste that is said to be superior to anything now on the market. It also manufactures a coating impervious to the action of sulphur water. There is a big market for this paint in the coke region, as well as elsewhere. The development of the coal mines has resulted in an abundance of sulphur water in nearly all of the mines and the use of this paint on pipes and machinery withstands the ravages of the acids. The Highland Company holds a rather peculiar position towards the United States Government, as it is one of the few concerns that compel Uncle Sam to send cash with his order. When the government orders the Highland's valuable products, the cash accompanies the order. It seems that the first order was for 98 cents, which was remitted by voucher in due time. Because of the red tape in connection with endorsing the check and having it honored at Washington, the company decided Uncle Sam had best remit cash with the order in the future. Uncle Sam has done so ever since for the Highland product is just what Uncle Sam wants and he gets it, even by paying cash in advance.

The Yough Chemical Company is another small but prosperous concern, manufacturing ammonia and other products. This company does not make much noise, but it does a steady, constant business year in and year out. Although not an industry, in the strict sense of the word, the Connellsville Steam Laundry Company plays an important part in the community. It washes Connellsville's dirty linen and gives employment to a number of persons, mostly girls. The company at present has a monopoly on the business and, with its improved machinery is said to net its stockholders a nice return on their investment.

There is food to eat and beverages to drink manufactured in Connellsville. Within the near future it will become a macaroni center. The foreign population of the coke region is a large consumer of vermicelli and kindred products, and the Connellsville Macaroni Company has just completed a large, four-story building on the West Side for their manufacture. This industry will give employment to a considerable number of persons and it is expected the product will find a ready sale throughout this and adjoining States.

There are two breweries and two distilleries located within the city. They are the Pittsburgh Brewing Company and the Yough Brewing Company; the Connellsville and the White Rock Distilling Companies. The soft drink consumers can secure these products from the Connellsville Bottling Works, Coughanour & Company and the Dean Bottling Company. Ice is manufactured in large quantities by the Yough Crystal Ice & Storage Company, which owns two manufacturing plants within the city and operates a cold storage plant, ice cream factory and kindred interests. F. C. Rose and the Connellsville Ice Cream Factory also manufacture the gallons upon gallons of ice cream consumed each summer.

Electric Power Center.
Untertown disputes the fact that Connellsville is the center of the coke region, but has to admit that to get anywhere, a Untertown man must pass through Connellsville. If bound east, he boards the train here; if going to Pittsburgh, must pass through Connellsville on his way. Further, Untertown gets its electric light and power from Connellsville. Connellsville is the electrical center of Western Pennsylvania. The big power house at Greene Junction, just south of town, furnishes light and power to an enormous population. Besides lighting Fayette and Westmoreland counties, and furnishing power to run their trolley cars, the company has also invaded Washington and Allegheny counties. Recent acquisitions of territory have caused the company's lighting territory to become almost doubled. The power house at Connellsville now furnishes light as far as, and including, Washington, Pa., together with dozens of other towns in the Pittsburgh district and along the Monongahela river. The general offices of the company are located here. Besides the scores of men employed by the trolley company, who make their home here, the power house employees are considerable in number. The mammoth turbines are never still, night or day, and the plant is not only one of the largest but one of the most modern to be found in this country. The power house represents an investment of almost $2,000,000.

The West Penn was one of the first interurban railroads to adopt the all-steel type coach. At present the company operates only local cars but there is reason to believe that with the completion of the new "loop" to Untertown, express service will be inaugurated, greatly reducing the present running time on the main line between Untertown, Connellsville and Greensburg.

New Railroad a Promise.
The completion of the Western Maryland railroad between Connellsville and Cumberland, holds forth much promise. Although no new territory will be developed through the construction of this link, it will put Connellsville on the map of another trunk line connecting the east and west. It will also relieve the people of the Alleghenies from the grasp of monopoly which has been enjoyed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The construction of the new railroad has already done much for Connellsville. It is estimated that when the final rails are laid connecting the Western Maryland with the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, the two companies will have spent fully $1,000,000 in this community.

The right of way through the city, including the property needed for yards on the West Side, cost fully $250,000, while the construction work has been particularly costly. It was necessary to bridge the Herd bottom with an immense fill of earth and beams of steel; the railroad passes through the town overhead, eliminating dangerous grade crossings, and this too, was costly. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie has found it necessary to raise its tracks for fully a mile towards Dickerson Run and is dumping thousands of cars of slag and earth on the property it purchased.

The map of the West Side was changed by the railroad building. A large portion of the Sixth ward has been wiped out and scores of houses were either torn down or moved elsewhere. This activity resulted in a building boom which swept the town last spring because it came simultaneous with one of the busiest seasons the contracting firms have ever enjoyed.

Building Boom On.

Connellsville has always been a good town for builders. Never before, however, have contractors enjoyed greater prosperity than in 1911. The spirit of building was in the air. New dwellings and business houses sprang up, old ones were remodeled, and painters found themselves unable to take care of the business that was offered. The spirit of improvement struck the business men, too, and the past spring was marked by more renovations in the business district than ever before. The result is that today Connellsville's downtown section presents a metropolitan air that few communities of its size can rival.

There are several reputable and prosperous building firms in Connellsville, all of them backed by local capital. Among them are the Connellsville Construction Company, Fayette Lumber Company, Connellsville Planing Mill Company, Keystone Planing Mill Company, South Connellsville Lumber Company and the Youghiogheny Lumber Company. Besides these there are several less pretentious but equally industrious concerns.

The stranger visiting Connellsville is always impressed with the number and magnificence of its buildings. It is not a town with one skyscraper and nothing else. Although the tallest building is but eight stories high, it has many large and impressive appearing structures. The banks have taken the lead, with the churches following a close second. The First National Bank occupies a beautiful

SMITHFIELD.

SMITHFIELD, July 27.—R. Smith is putting in a large cistern on the Baptist church lot close to and at the east wall of the church. Mr. Smith is doing this at his own expense for the purpose of giving the water to his residence which is near the church and on a much lower elevation so that the water from the cistern will supply the house by gravity.

Jim Beeson the one-legged apostle of Scotland of Rowan stopped off here Wednesday on his return from Morgantown where he had been the night before to hear a joint debate between a priest and an exponent of socialism. Jim is always ready in season and out of season to explain the doctrine of socialism and had hardly struck the platform on his arrival here until he took a text and delivered an animated talk to two or three auditors who were attracted by his story.

The writer acknowledges the receipt of a copy of Webster's New Standard Dictionary. We want to thank the manager of the circulation department of The Courier for the prompt delivery of the same. We sent our order Tuesday, the 25th inst., and the first mail Wednesday morning we had the book. To say that we are pleased with the book is putting it mildly. The wonder is how you can furnish a book worth of value for the nominal sum of 95 cents. It is a ready reference in its compact and useful form. Mr. Beeson returned from his big campaign International dictionary we have in the house.

BLUE ARMY LOST.

In Mimic Battle Fought at Camp Wiley Yesterday Afternoon.

CAMP WILEY, Indiana, Pa., July 27.

The fact that the Blue army, under the command of "Brig-Gen" Richard Coulter, Jr., happened to make light of a narrow "goat trail" that went whirling up a 1,700 foot hill, caused the Red army, under the command of "Brig-Gen" A. J. Logan to win Tuesday afternoon a glorious victory at the "Battle of Armagh." The army of the Blue comprised the Pottsville Infantry, commanded by Col. Franklin Blackstone, the Tenth Infantry, commanded by Lieut.-Col. T. S. Crago, a detachment of cavalry and the signal corps.

The army of the Red was composed of the Eighteenth Infantry, commanded by Lieut.-Col. James H. Bigler; the Sixteenth Infantry, under the command of Col. George C. Rickards, part of the cavalry and Battery B, at the camp Lieut.-Col. Bigler and Col. Rickards, jointly are it. The decision was made by Lieut.-Col. W. S. McKee of the Fourteenth Infantry, who was on the staff of umpires, and it was against his own regiment.

The Percentage Plan.

This conscientious saving of money makes you careful in all of the things that you do. It teaches you the relationship between principle and interest. It shows you that when you spend one dollar that you are spending 1% on one hundred dollars, or the earning power of one hundred dollars for a whole year at this rate. The percentage plan is a good way to figure all of your expenses in order to get along, 1% paid on savings accounts. The Citizens National Bank, 138 Pittsburgh street, Connellsville, Pa.

Cutting Out One Factor In The High Cost of Living

One of the chief causes of high prices is high profits. Any plan that reduces the size or the number of profits that stand between the factory and you is a plan in your benefit.

Regal Shoes are Sold Direct from the Factory to Wearer at Cost Plus Five Per Cent. Commission and the Low Regal Selling Cost

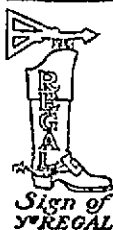

Heretofore, all good shoes have been built to sell at fixed "even" prices—$3.50, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00 and so on. If a shoe could be sold at, say $4.35, shoe traditions would not permit it. It had to be "built up" by adding unnecessary expense to sell at $4.50, or "cut down" (to its hurt) to sell at $4.00.

All this has been changed by the Regal Shoe Company's new plan of selling shoes just as many other necessities are sold—and just as all necessities should be—at a definite, small commission over cost of manufacture—in our case only 5 per cent.—plus the cost of selling.

It makes no difference whether or not the price figures out in "even money." The new plan gives you Regal Shoes nearer to actual cost, and charged with smaller and fewer profits than any other make. The price is stamped on the shoes at the factory. This stamp is your guaranty that more of your money goes for quality and less for profit than in any other shoe you can buy.

This is the stamp that will hereafter be found on Regal Shoes. It is your guaranty that the price appearing in its center is the lowest for which a shoe of such quality can be bought.

Regal Prices are now $3.35 to $5.85

six story business block on West Main street, in the heart of the city, a fitting monument to a strong financial institution. The Second National has recently erected an eight story block on Ulmstone corner. On the opposite corner is the brick home of the Title & Trust Company, five stories high, and diagonally across, on another corner the fratello building of the Colonial National. The Young National, during the past year, has erected a handsome building on Main street of a type that has become popular with banking institutions in the larger cities. On the West Side the Union National occupies its own brick business and apartment block. The citizens National is at present the only Conneltsville bank which does not occupy a home of its own. It is located in the four story business block of F. E. Markell.

A particularly impressive business block is the home of The Aaron Company, furniture dealers, which occupies its own six story building on Pittsburgh street. There are numerous other attractive buildings, for offices, stores and apartments, not only in the business section, but on the South Side.

The religious needs of Conneltsville have not been neglected. There are many churches of various denominations and the tendency is for better and more artistic homes. The latest church to build a new edifice is Trinity English Lutheran, which will next month occupy its handsome new home on Fairview avenue. This is a particularly impressive stone structure. Its $10,000 chimneys were donated by H. C. Frick. The Presbyterian congregation, which has for years occupied its present location on Main street, in the business district, has recently decided to build on the South Side and has purchased a commanding location in the heart of the fashionable residential section. The other churches have been in their present quarters for a number of years, the Baptists and Christians having built new churches in the past and the United Presbyterians purchasing the church of the defunct South Side Baptists. There are indications, however, that the Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Protestants will soon outgrow their present locations and will seek elsewhere for more room and better buildings. This Episcopal congregation has already taken steps to supplant their West Side building with something more elaborate. The Catholic Church in Conneltsville has a $100,000 church edifice and parochial schools and residences valued at $100,000 more.

Has Good Schools. Conneltsville has good schools. The present system was inaugurated as the result of an upheaval some five years ago and it is a model one. Recently there was completed an addition to the High School, costing more than $50,000. There seems little question but that manual training and domestic science will be included in the course of study in the near future. The graded schools are of a high standard and the pupils are well housed in attractive buildings. The Parochial school, conducted in connection with the Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church, has a new building in course of construction which is to be one of the finest in the State.

The Carnegie Free Library also figures largely in the life of the community. It was erected about 10 years ago as the gift of Andrew Carnegie. It is well supplied with the latest books and is a valuable adjunct to the school system.

The trained and injured of the mines and the railroads are given tentative care at the Cottage State Hospital, which is maintained by the State. For the past 21 years it has given aid to thousands of victims of our industrial development and progress. It receives accident victims from all parts of the region.

The municipality is well governed and taxes are reasonable. With the officers of the new third class city assuming control it is believed that even better results will obtain from the management of affairs. The police and fire departments are ably manned and managed. Conneltsville has a reputation for developing fire-fighters and besides the corps of efficient paid firemen at every fire there is a large number of trained volunteers on hand to give assistance. Loss from fire is comparatively small. Conneltsville is proud of its water supply. It comes from the river, a mountain stream which is fed from springs and practically free from all contamination; and from springs which feed two reservoirs. Great care is observed to keep the water pure and twice each week samples are sent to the laboratories for bacteriological examination. The presence of typhoid germs is practically unknown. Typhoid epidemics, and they have been few, have nearly all been traced to the use of well water. The city water supply is carefully filtered before it is turned into the mains, although the raw supply has never shown the presence of, colon bacilli, the typhoid germ. The supply of water is apparently inexhaustible. This town has never known a water famine. It has never been necessary to warn the public to "save the water." Even during the record-breaking drought of the fall of 1909 there was a plentiful supply of water and Conneltsville did not suffer. It is this remarkably pure and generous water supply that makes Conneltsville particularly desirable for manufacturing concerns. Besides having plenty of water there is cheap fuel and unexcelled transportation facilities.

Future Prospects Bright. There is little question but that Conneltsville is destined to become an important industrial center. Already a big factor in the commerce of the world, through the coke trade which bears its name, there seems no doubt but that other lines of industry will soon learn to appreciate the wonderful advantages this community has to offer and will take advantage of them. The time will come, and with the present generation, when Conneltsville will be recognized as one of the leading manufacturing communities of Western Pennsylvania. Today it is already regarded as one of the busiest towns in this big industrial empire. The city is certain to grow, and grow fast, and the prediction is made with almost certainty of fulfillment that the next decade will mark a more rapid development than shown in the ten years just closed, remarkable as that has been.

Its advantages may again be enumerated; the remarkable geographical location, situated in such a manner that to reach it the haul is down hill from all directions; situated on the Youngbush river, always an important factor in any city's development, and one which will continue to be an asset whether it is improved or not, affording, as it does, a constant solution of the problem of water supply; located on four railroads, three of them forming two trunk lines between the east and the west; and practically transcontinental systems; close to the fuel supply, with cheap coal and cheap gas for manufacturing purposes; convenient to geological deposits of commercial value, including iron ores, fire clay, limestone and sand; all of these things are factors which eventually will bring greater prosperity to Conneltsville.

The World Moves ON THE WINGS OF CREDIT

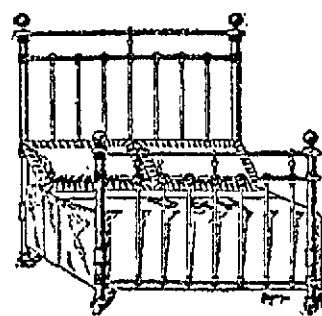

Three-fourths of the world's business is done on credit.

Credit is the keynote of every large concern.

Demand For Dictionary Brisk

The Courier's unparalleled offer of a first class dictionary at the cost of only packing and transportation continues to bring a constant stream of orders to the office and the results have far exceeded expectations. The coke region intends to get a sample hold on the use of the English language and The Courier is giving it the opportunity to do so. The demand for Webster's New Standard Dictionary illustrated continues unabated and the 300 mark has already been passed. If the total number distributed during the week does not go beyond 500 it will be because of an awful slump which has as yet shown no signs of setting in.

From all parts of The Courier's territory and from sections that it does not serve, come orders for the handsome volume. Over at Latrobe, which is pretty far removed from Conneltsville, as far as the influence of any Fayette county newspaper is concerned, Miller and Biggs have sent their order for the $1 volume. They accompanied their order with the required coupons and the volume was mailed them promptly. Up at Meyersdale, almost on the summit of the Alleghenies, H. F. Willis contributed a mail order for one of the $1 kind.

In Conneltsville all classes are clamoring for the volume. That a department store has use for a dictionary is shown by the fact that the Wright-Metzer Company has ordered one of the $1 volumes. Even an advertiser is puzzled over the exact meaning or spelling of a word, and an up-to-the-minute reference book is required. Styles change and names with them, and a dictionary out of date is of no use whatever.

Smithfield came to the front today with a big bunch of mail orders. They craved enlightenment in Smithfield as well as elsewhere. Dictionaries are best appreciated by those possessing a good education and this is demonstrated by the number of orders that have come from professional men.

The second century mark in the sale of the dictionaries was passed with the purchase of No. 200 by C. D. Dwyer of Dunbar. Mrs. C. E. Schmitz purchased No. 250.

Morgan Valley readers of The Courier are eager to take advantage of bargains as well as those of other sections. The first order from that neighborhood came yesterday from Klingensmith Brothers, the leading merchants of Morgan.

An unusual sale was No. 241. It went to B. Frank Smith. Mr. Smith came in during a rush, secured his volume and hastily went on his way. The busy clerk had no time to identify him as the fugitive whom Sheriff Johns has been pursuing for some weeks past, and if they had the identity would have proven this B. Frank Smith a good citizen of Conneltsville.

Too Much Toothbrush.
It is possible to err in the direction of a too free use of the toothbrush. "Once a day for three minutes is sufficient," writes a dentist in the Family Doctor of London. "Even in using a toothbrush once a day it is better not to rub it directly across the surface of the teeth, but to slant it, holding the point down so that it cleans the spaces between the teeth as well as the front of the teeth and removes the full force of the contract from the teeth. I have had many patients who have literally rubbed the enamel from their teeth by the excessive use of a brush. The average person uses a brush too much and not too little. In addition to being careful with the brush, it is also important to see that the bristles are soft and not hard. Tooth powder should be used only once a day."

Awfully Agonizing.
"He told me my operation would be absolutely painless."
"And wasn't it?"
"Now, it cost me a hundred dollars!"

PITTSBURGH BREWING CO.

CONNELLSVILLE BREWERY

Now for a Grand Farewell Final

Our Gigantic Sale of the Splendid M. H. Feldstein & Co. Stock at 33 Cents on the Dollar Will Close Saturday, August 5th.

Thanks to the enthusiastic response on the part of shrewd and thrifty men and women who have thronged this extraordinary money-saving sale every day since its inception, we have reduced this magnificent stock of goods to such an extent that we'll be able to vacate these quarters just about on the date agreed upon.

It was at first understood that we were to move out on July 20th. However, there was such a volume of goods to be sold that an additional extension has been granted us. But we must vacate positively on Saturday, August 5th.

We shall leave no stone unturned in order to dispose of every garment and every article in the store in the meanwhile. We do not want to be compelled to move a single item to our warehouse, so we announce

If this sensational sale has been of benefit to you and your family in the past, you will find its possibilities for saving even greater during these final days. Prices are simply slaughtered in order to effect a complete disposal and your opportunities to profit are practically limitless.
